Executive Overview of Selling Guide Updates

The December 2018 Selling Guide Announcement provides more flexibility to appraisal waiver offers, on-frame modular and modular construction, and more. This update:

- More flexibility for appraisal waiver offers in disaster-impacted areas. We’re providing more flexibility for the exercise of appraisal waiver offers for properties located in disaster-impacted areas. Lenders may now execute an appraisal waiver offer on a loan in process when the area where the property is located is impacted by a disaster. Lenders are still required to determine if the property has been damaged and confirm that it meets all Fannie Mae property eligibility requirements. This change supports Day 1 Certainty® and will lessen the impact on loan closure and delivery timeframes.

- Provides more opportunities to get representation and warranty relief. We allow lenders to use vendor tools to calculate self-employment income. With this update, when a lender uses a Fannie Mae-approved self-employment income calculation tool and enters the income amount into Desktop Underwriter®, they will receive representation and warranty relief on the accuracy of the income calculation. LoanBeam’s Fannie Mae SEI 1084 workbook is now an approved income calculation tool.

- Simplifies unreimbursed business expense requirements. To align with recent changes to IRS federal income tax reporting requirements, we no longer consider unreimbursed business expenses when calculating commission income that is 25% or more of employment income, or automobile allowances.

- Adds more flexibility for on-frame modular and modular construction. On-frame modular homes are now considered eligible property types if they meet the eligibility requirements of stick-built homes. Multi-unit buildings, such as attached condos, may be built using modular construction if they comply with local building codes. View the Manufactured/Modular Housing Types infographic as a quick reference.

- Clarifies flood insurance policies for condo projects. In support of our continued efforts to consolidate the Selling and Servicing Guides, we’ve updated several of our flood insurance policies for condo projects. The changes include allowing high-LTV refinance loans secured by units in attached condo projects to have individual flood insurance policies. We no longer require the homeowners’ associations to maintain a master flood insurance policy for two- to four-unit properties.

See Announcement SEL-2018-09 for details of these and other miscellaneous updates.

Thank you for business and best wishes for your holiday season.
